THE FIRE IS OUT... WHAT'S NEXT?

ABOUT THE WORKSHOP & CONFERENCE

After the Flames is a first of its kind: an interactive workshop and conference exploring post-fire recovery.

The gathering presents a unique opportunity for sponsors to interact with a wide audience, including communities impacted by fire and agencies responding to the long-term effects on the landscape.

AFTER THE FLAMES IS HOSTED BY COALITIONS AND COLLABORATIVES, INC. (COCO)

COCO, along with our co-conveners, sponsors, and affiliates, support collaborative conservation efforts throughout the American West. Our post-fire experience in Colorado began with the 1996 Buffalo Creek Fire and continues with the lasting impacts from the Hayman Fire, Waldo Canyon Fire, and many others.

Our strength is recognizing the value of community to bring about action on-the-ground. Our experience has shown that the people who have the most a stake are those who are most successful. Our Vision is to Empower People Working Together, for People and the Planet.

OUR CO-CONVENERS

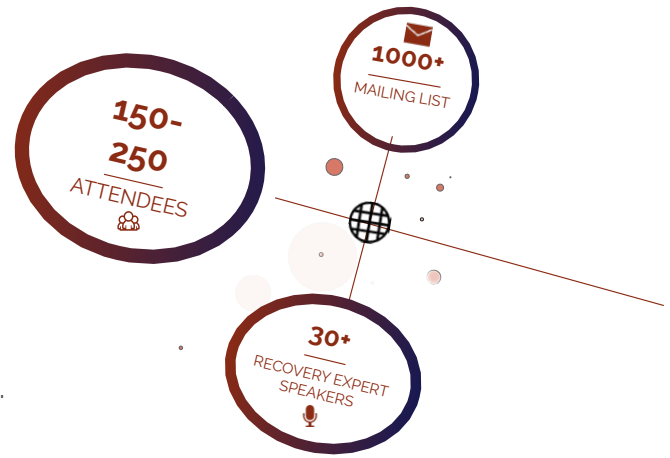

AUDIENCE

The workshop attendees include a wide range of individuals, organizations, and agencies who have been impacted by wildfire or who respond to the post-fire impacts.

Participants will be looking for tools, materials, and resources to navigate the lasting results of wildfires.

Sponsors will have the opportunity to engage with participants and show how their work and resources can support communities during the restoration process in a post-fire landscapes.

Attendees will include: community leaders, emergency managers, non-profit representatives, local, state, and federal government representatives, technical experts, and public land managers.

SPONSORS HAVE THE OPPORTUNITY TO ENGAGE WITH CONFERENCE ATTENDEES IN A NUMBER OF WAYS.
